I hope you are having a nice weekend.

Last week I told you about Micro-Ultrasound and how it may replace MP-MRI as a diagnostic tool. Now, another exciting development suggests the medical community will have a smaller, more portable, more affordable MRI machine to use on a variety of diagnostic tasks once it's approved by the United States Food and Drug Administration. Click on the hyperlink above. There's a short, easy to read article that describes the new MRI technology set to improve medicine all over the world.

In the meantime, eat heart healthy, use your sunscreen this Summer, get regular skin cancer checkups and get going with your exercise routine.

And Ira and I always look forward to seeing you at our 2nd and 4th Tuesday evening support and information groups.

Warm regards,

CKM
